

SHAUN O'BRIEN

BAH Queen's University, L.L.B. University of Toronto (Dean's List, graduated with Honours), law clerk to the Honourable Mr. Justice Strayer, Federal Court of Appeal, called to the Bar in 2000.

Shaun works extensively on workplace related and public law cases. She represents individual and institutional clients in a wide range of workplace issues, including wrongful dismissal, human rights, negligence and malicious prosecution, and class proceedings. Prior to joining the firm, Shaun gained a strong background in media law and defamation. Shaun frequently acts in cases against the Crown and in cases with administrative, Charter and other public law issues. She also represents Crown prosecutors in workplace proceedings.

Shaun's practice also focuses in the health sector, including professional regulation. She represents both individual and institutional clients in College disciplinary matters and on judicial review. She also assists institutional clients in a wide range of matters including funding negotiations and injunctions.

Shaun has a particular interest in human rights issues and regularly represents individuals at the Human Rights Tribunal. She currently is on the executive of the OBA's Constitutional, Civil Liberties and Human Rights Section.
